"Hi, I'm Xander, a final-year UI/UX Design and Interactive Development student specialising in UI design, prototyping, and front-end development.

I create clean, accessible, and user-focused interfaces with an emphasis on real-world value and ethical design.

I am dependable in team environments, consistently meeting deadlines and contributing where needed, and I am currently gaining industry experience through an internship at @Team Dynamics while looking to grow within a well-structured, collaborative team. "

Sports

Team sports

I love any team sports where teamwork is essential to winning.

This can include your basic team sports like cricket, but I am more into cycling and how a team comes into play during big tours like Tour de France, Giro d Italia and Cape Town Cycle Tour.

Individual sports

Individual sports impress me because athletes push themselves to the limits of what is capable with only themself to blame if something goes wrong.

This can include Mountain Biking or Fighting (boxing or UFC).

The world

I am obsessed with geography of the world, I love learning new things about countries.

One day I want to travel to as many countries as I can and experience their differences, whether that is climate, people, infrastructure or way of living.

My dream place to visit is anywhere Europe and travel through the schengen zone
